

THE FUTURE BEGINS WITH YOU

The world is calling. Seeking the groundbreakers, the risk takers and the difference makers. Demanding vision and voice from tomorrow's most promising engineers, scientists and tech innovators. The problems of the future will require the concerted efforts of exceptional STEM leaders and graduate education is essential to preparing for a challenge of this magnitude. Poised at the intersection of technology and humanity, Carnegie Mellon University's ability to inspire and empower STEM leaders is world-renowned.

Attracting and equipping future leaders in STEM has never been more important to our nation's economic prosperity, global competitiveness and security. That's why the CMU Rales Fellows program was created: to empower you and connect you with others who share your passion, and to advance the next generation of STEM leaders like you.

THE CMU RALES FELLOWS EXPERIENCE
